The British Phycological Society

www.brphycsoc.org

The British Phycological Society was founded in 1952 to promote all aspects of the study of algae.

The main activities at present sponsored by the societies are:

- The organisation of scientific meetings
- Publication of European Journal of Phycology
- Publication of a flora of the British marine algae, Seaweeds of the British Isles.
- Publication of a checklist and atlas of the seaweeds of Britain and Ireland.

The Society also circulates to members a newsletter, The Phycologist. For more information about the British Phycological Society please visit www.phycsoc.org.

Membership is open to all those interested in any aspect of phycology (the study of algae). Please contact Graham Scott (G.Scott@hull.ac.uk) regarding membership. Individual members of the BPS are eligible to subscribe to the Journal at a preferential subscription rate. Please contact Graham Scott for further information.

The Society provides some support to students to attend meetings and courses

European Journal of Phycology is an important focus for the activities of phycologists all over the world. The Editors-in-Chief are assisted by an international team of Associate Editors who are experts in the following fields:

- macroalgal ecology
- microalgal ecology
- physiology and biochemistry
- cell biology
- molecular biology
- macroalgal systematics
- microalgal systematics
- applied phycology and biotechnology

European Journal of Phycology publishes papers on all aspects of algae, including cyanobacteria. Articles may be in the form of primary research papers, Miniviews, which present the author's viewpoint on important recent developments, or full length reviews of topical subjects.

Abstracting Information

European Journal of Phycology is currently abstracted and indexed in Biosis; Current Contents/Agriculture; Biology and Environmental Science; CAS (Chemical Abstracts Services); SCOPUS and the ISI Science Citation Index.

To submit a paper to European Journal of Phycology please go to www.tandf.co.uk/journals/ifa.asp and click on the journal link.
